

Sterling Edwards' Watercolor Workshops

Materials List

Sterling will have a limited inventory of his products and original art for sale at his workshops for those who would like to purchase them. You can also order his products ahead of time by going to his website store at www.sterlingedwards.com. Please note that Sterling DOES NOT sell paper at his workshops.

The following is a list of recommended materials and tools for watercolor workshops conducted by Sterling Edwards. Participants are encouraged to bring what they have and refer to this list if they need additional items. It is not necessary however that everyone have these exact products as the techniques that Sterling teaches work well with a wide variety of materials. Professional grade materials are always recommended.

Paper: A good cold pressed watercolor paper is recommended. Sterling prefers 140lb and 300lb cold pressed Fabriano Artistico Traditional White watercolor paper or Arches 300 lb cold pressed Traditional paper if more texture is required. Paper can be purchased in blocks of various sizes and in individual sheets. Blocks usually consist of several pieces of paper that are glued around the edges. If individual sheets are purchased it is recommended that a mounting board of some type is also brought to the workshop.

Brushes: A good assortment of round and flat brushes is necessary for most of the styles of painting that are demonstrated in Sterling's workshops. Recommended brushes are; a #4, #6, #8, and #12 round watercolor brushes, and a liner or rigger brush. Flat brushes should include a ½", 1", and a 2". One or two flat stiff bristle brushes such as oil painting brushes should also be brought to the workshop. They are excellent for lifting shapes and blending edges. Sterling uses the brushes that he designed, the Sterling Edwards Blending and Glazing Brushes. They are available in 1", 1 ½", and 2".

Paint: Sterling uses and recommends professional grade watercolor paints. There are several good quality paints on the market that can be purchased at most art supply companies. Select a wide variety of at least twelve to fourteen colors. NOTE: Sterling uses a palette that is predominately transparent. All of the techniques that Sterling teaches work with opaque and semi-opaque colors as well as transparent. The following MaimeriBlu colors are Sterling's preference; however, each artist should make their own decisions as to which colors and brands they like:

Permanent Yellow Lemon, Indian Yellow, Golden Lake, Orange Lake, Brown Stil de Grain, Avignon Orange, Permanent Red Deep, Primary Red Magenta, Permanent Violet Bluish, Payne's Grey, Primary Blue Cyan, Green Blue, Permanent Green Deep, and Cupric Green Deep.

Palette: A good watercolor palette with a lid is necessary. There are many styles to choose from. Sterling uses the palette that he designed; The Sterling Edwards Big Brush Palette.

Miscellaneous tools:

Drawing pad
Drawing pencil
Roll of toilet tissue
Roll of paper towels
Box of facial tissue (Buy the cheap stuff, not the brands that have facial lotion in them)
Kneaded eraser
Hand held hair drier
Camera for photographing demos (Video recording with cameras or cell phones is strictly prohibited)
Reference photographs
Two containers for water
Jacket or sweater
Mounting Board for your paper
1" Masking Tape